(From the Pall Matt Gatette). When Bir Cornewall Lowis said that life wou he telerable but for its pleasures, he perhaps rewhich "spoicty" imposes as the price of its pri-viloges and enjoyments. Among the labours of this nature there are law more payage than that of visiting a date which is of course multiplied tenfold during the London season, when the number of calls made by energetic ladies accords the wildest calculation. In Rorth America the livet day of the year is entirely devoted to this work. for then every gentleman visits his acquaintances, the ladies and State functionaries receiving their visitors from nine in the morning till ten o'clock at night. In Canada, the Roman Catholic Rishon of Montreal a few years ago by a happy stroke of genius relieved himself of the tertium of these visits, and at the same time furnished himself with a valuable collection of portrails. He advertised a week previously that his health would not permit him to receive his friends on New or Mesers Augustine Heard & Compradors. Year's Day, but that he would accept their photographs instead of their calls. London visits are of course mere matters of business, and usually imply thanks for invitations received, or anxiety to obtain such favours. As this is more convenightly intimated by leaving a card than by personal interview, the system of what fast men term "sowing your pastsbaard" is now universal. To young gentlemen of limited incomes unprovided with broughtms, cate, or phaetens, who are consequently compelled to imitate the postman and go their rounds on foot, the establishment of slips in half doors for lotters and cards was a great boon; but it is whispered that the present generation, unequal to the work now confide their cards to professional distributern, and roan the harvest that the athers sow. to the Turks, but the style of address thereon is widely different. In France a recentific gentleman appoints to his name the designations of the that embellish his cost. In Garmany and other FIHAT nowly created commedians Dwelling continental countries there is no atint of informs | HOUSE containing eight Rooms, Kitchen tain as to a person's dignities, but in England the Cooling Rooms, etc., also litubling and Garden abject is apparently to conceal everything beyond grounds situated next the residence of Captain the name and perhaps the address of the indivi- Thomsett, West Point, between Bonham and dual who leaves his card upon you. For instance, a could bearing the inscription "Mr. Jones" appears upon the table. Jones is Under-Secretary of State for the Arctic Regions, and President of the 2931 Houghan, 6th December, 1865. the Royal College of Gardeners, but does no vouchoule to make this known to the world be eal's upon. If Brown is in the army he may perhaps give his regiment, but he retains the title of 'Mr.," leaving is doubtful whether he be n lieutenant, an ensign, or a surgeon. Hobinson has also got "Mr." on his card, but is burt if he is addressed Robinson, Esquire, for he is the Honographe Jack Robinson. Why should not this courtesy title form part of his printed name? It would provent mistakes, and tuft-buntors might think more highly of him. A somewhat unpopular young gentleman who owned a magnificent house in the country complained to one of his friends that he was not warmly received in soolety. " Have a print of your bouse engraved upon vone cards," was the raply, "and you'll be asked to every party in London." At one time it was suggested that photographs should be left instead of cards, and hence the term "carte do visito:" nona abandoned. There would by no objection, if the system ones became fashionable, to adding
